Our Speaker:

After serving in a number of churches in Wales, Stuart Bell became Rector in the university town of Aberystwyth in 1988 where he faithfully preached the gospel to generations of students and townspeople alike for over 25 years. Although a Sais (englishman) Stuart learnt Welsh in order to minister to the local people. He also has a fantastic memory for names, making an effort to remember the names of all the students coming through each year.

Today he lives with his wife Pru (a magistrate for 21 years) above Borth on the Welsh coast. Although officially retired, he continues to serve as a minister as well as regularly leading guided tours of Israel.
